Analysis of loading lists and stowage plans continues

Fact-finding team waiting for operation

Picture taken 18 August 2012

The weather conditions off the English south coast with wave heights of more than 4 metres and southwest winds with about wind force 8 prevent the two fact-finding teams from France, England, the Netherlands and Germany from boarding the FLAMINIA.

In the meantime the precise analysis of the loading lists and the stowage plans continues at the casualty staff. The content of every single container is checked on its potential risk with the support of experts of TUIS (transport, accident, information and assistance system of the chemical industry) and the Federal Institute for Materials Research and Testing.
