MSC FLAMINIA expected to reach German waters in two days time

Towing train MSC FLAMINIA currently in territorial waters of the Netherlands

The towing train with the MSC FLAMINIA is currently located off Rotterdam and is expected to reach German territorial waters on Saturday morning. The MSC FLAMINIA, escorted by the multi-purpose vessel NEUWERK and a vessel of the German Federal Police (Bundespolizei), will first steer for the Deep Water Road. A safety zone is established around the vessel and the air and sea spaces are closed off. This is done to protect the operation forces who are taken on board the MSC FLAMINIA and back to the NEUWERK by vessels and helicopters.

Meanwhile, the necessary preparations are made in the deep-water port Jade-Weser-Port in Wilhelmshaven so that the MSC FLAMINIA is able to enter the port. The specialists and experts on board the MSC FLAMINIA are continuously monitoring the condition of the vessel and the cargo.
